SUBJECT: Hi, <firstname,> here's the report I promised.

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

Hi, my name is Bill Flack, the Vice President of Sales at OnsiteAgent.com. I'm pleased to provide you with access to the free report, "How Email Marketing can Convert up to 5 Times More Prospects into Sales for Your Development," our thanks to you just for viewing our demonstration video.

Now that you've seen the demo of Onsite Agent, you realize that you can't afford to run your development without this powerful tool at your fingertips.

Do you remember the part where the video pointed out that the Onsite Agent system will integrate the data entered on your website registration form into its database automatically? That feature alone can help you turn first time web visitors into customers for your development, because Onsite Agent will automatically send them your email follow-up campaigns. All you have to do is sit back and watch your profits soar!

SUBJECT: Have you tried it yet, <firstname>?

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

In my last message, I sent you the link to the free report, "How Email Marketing can Convert up to 5 Times More Prospects into Sales for Your Development."

I hope you've had a chance to read through it. If you have, you'll recall 2 very important things you must have in the 1st email you send out as a follow-up. Has it slipped you mind? Have another look towards the end of the report. Here the link again in case you need it:

[link]

So have you started trying out the recommendations I made yet?

Remember that the Onsite Agent system has automated email campaigns, and comes with a variety of templates for you to choose from. Whether visitors register at your sales office kiosk or via your website, your follow-up emails will reach them automatically.

You can very easily put together a series of messages and once they're done, the system does all the work for you. No more sending out messages manually. And your sales agents don't have to spend time trying to get a live person on the phone. Talk about simplifying things at the office!

It's just one of the many ways that Onsite Agent will help grow your business without you having to drain your business account with marketing expenses.

Why not try the system absolutely free for 30 days? You have nothing to lose and customers to gain....

SUBJECT: Are your sales staff too busy to sell homes, <firstname>?

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

If you're still using the old fashioned form-filling method, your agents probably have a mound of paperwork on their desks. And they're quite likely spending a lot of time sorting through it, filing it, searching for it and trying to decipher it for computer input.

Unfortunately that means they're not spending as much time as they could be actually selling homes by following up with their customers. Of course, it doesn't have to be this way.

Onsite Agent eliminates all that paper clutter and automatically stores visitor information into the database. And with the follow-up email campaigns that come with the system, keeping in touch with potential customers becomes painless and effortless.

So your agents can get down to the job of selling homes. Lots more homes, in fact, since Onsite Agent makes the experience so pleasing for your customers that you'll outshine your competition just by having the system. It really will be a pleasure to do business with you.

Isn't it about time you fully automated your development? Try Onsite Agent free for a 30 day trial period. You'll be amazed at how much more efficiently your business runs.

SUBJECT: ~FIRSTNAME~, let's talk about your customers...

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

Bill Flack, here, VP of sales for Onsite Agent. I just wanted to discuss your customers for a minute.

After all, without them, you'd have no business.

It seems that the old adage "the customer is king" doesn't hold as much weight as it used to. Too often these days many businesses give people the impression that not only are they not always right, but that they're downright wrong.

Big mistake. If your visitors aren't happy with you, they'll walk away and go elsewhere. And that translates into less profit for you.

Do you know what your customers want? What do they like or dislike about your homes? What would they like to see changed? What do they think about your price ranges and your floor plans?

More importantly, do you have a system to find out this information?
Okay, maybe you have feedback forms or a list of questions your sales agents direct at the customer. And then that needs to be inputted. Hmm ... sounds like quite a bit of work. Besides, a lot of people don't like taking the time to sit and answer a series of questions.

Of course, Onsite Agent is set up so that the data from the feedback is entered by the customer directly into the database. You can offer incentives to motivate people to fill out your forms. And the information will come to you directly, so that you can analyze what people appreciate – and what they'd like to see changed.

This can help you to keep your customers happy. Or figure out why people aren't opting for a certain style or price range. All the information will be right there, for you to act upon. Don't you wish you'd had such a system in place a year ago, or more?

Don't wait another minute. Contact us right now to set up your free trial of the Onsite Agent system, and find out what you need to do more of to build your business.

SUBJECT: Where is your information going, ~FIRSTNAME~?

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

Okay, you've done it. That visitor has decided to go for it and become a client. That's the most important step in the process. So now your agents can sit back and relax over that client.

Well, maybe not. You've collected their information and put their data into one system where you keep all the records for visitors to your site. But now that this one's a client, you need to transfer the information into the database where you keep all your customer details. Transfer: such a great word, if only it was a reality for you.

Unfortunately, the 2 systems you're currently using are not compatible, so it becomes a question of re-entering the data, or at best, cutting and pasting. What a drag and a waste of your sales agent's time.

Onsite Agent eliminates the hassles involved in this scenario, since it allows for data exchange to other systems once your visitor becomes a buyer. That way, your agents have more time to deal with incoming potential customers. And they won't be feeling annoyed at all this extra work when they go to greet a new visitor.

After all, happy staff members relate to prospects much better. And first impressions of your sales office and staff mean a lot. But we'll talk more about that later.

In the meantime, see for yourself how much administration time Onsite Agent can save your office. Sign up for your free 30-day trial period now!

SUBJECT: ~FIRSTNAME~, what do your customers see 1st?

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

Think about it for a minute. When a new visitor walks into your sales office, what's their first impression? Do they see one of your sales agents holding a phone while apparently searching for a document amid a pile of paper on their desk? Another inputting data from a form they're obviously having trouble reading?

What sort of impression of your company is that providing? Because, they could be seeing an entirely different scene as they enter the door.

The first thing in their line of site could be an impressive, state-of-the-art kiosk system with large touch screen. That's an inviting attention-grabber, right? One sales agent could be free to leave what they're looking at on their computer screen immediately to greet the visitors.

The other could be engaged in phone conversation, looking at information right in front of him on his monitor.

Which scenario would impress you more if you were the visitor walking in?

Wouldn't you like your office to run at peak efficiency? Remember that with Onsite Agent, all data is stored automatically, eliminating the need for endless piles of paperwork. No more searching for forms which haven't yet been entered in the database when a customer calls with a question. No more sending out manual emails, or having your agents spend precious time on follow-up calls.

All this and more could be a part of your office system. Why not try it free for 30 days and see what happens? You have nothing to lose and customers to gain....

SUBJECT: So, ~FIRSTNAME~, how many more customers...?

Hi ~FIRSTNAME~,

What will you do differently this year as your sales figures increase? There are so many possibilities. You could take the family to a resort for the holidays, or buy a new sports car, or treat yourself to in-home gym equipment.

I know what you're thinking: if you want new customers, you need to spend more money on marketing, and that will reduce the vacation fund.

That's exactly why Onsite Agent is the perfect solution for you. There's no need to draw more visitors to your development: what you need is to convert more of those visitors into sales.

Between automated follow-up, data management features, a management view, a notes feature, co-broke tracking and unlimited support, you can't help but win with Onsite Agent working for your development.

Your biggest problem could be which resort you want to take the family to. Try Onsite Agent absolutely risk free for 30 days as you decide which hotel you want to book.

Give us a call to set things up.

Wishing you great success in your business,
